B. Use of Estimates in the Preparation of the Financial Statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Statutory Accounting Principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities. It also requires disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

C. Accounting Policy

Direct, assumed and ceded premiums are earned over the terms of the related insurance policies and reinsurance contracts. Unearned premium reserves are established to cover the unexpired portion of premiums written. Such reserves are computed by pro rata methods for direct business and are based on reports received from ceding entities for reinsurance. Premiums receivable are primarily due from agents and policyholders and are charged off when specific balances are determined to be uncollectible. After calculating nonadmitted amounts, an evaluation is made to determine whether any allowance for doubtful accounts is required.

Expenses incurred in connection with acquiring new insurance business, including such acquisition costs as sales commissions, are charged to operations as incurred. Expenses incurred are reduced for ceding allowances received or receivable.

Unpaid losses and loss adjustment expenses ("LAE") include an amount determined from individual case estimates and loss reports and an amount, based on past experience, for losses incurred but not reported. Such liabilities are necessarily based on assumptions and estimates while management believes the amounts are adequate, the ultimate liabilities may be in excess of or less than the amounts provided. The methods for making such estimates and for establishing the liabilities are continually reviewed and any adjustments are reflected in the period determined.

Net investment income earned consists primarily of interest and dividends reduced by investment related expenses. Interest is recognized on an accrual basis and dividends are recognized on an ex-dividend basis. Net realized capital gains (losses) are recognized on a specific identification basis when securities are sold, redeemed or otherwise disposed.

In addition, the Company uses the following accounting policies:

- All highly liquid debt securities with original or remaining maturities of twelve months or less, at acquisition, are classified as short-term investments. Such investments are characterized, along with cash, and cash equivalents and short term investments for purposes of the Company's statutory basis financial statements.
- Investments are carried at values prescribed by the NAIC. Bonds and mortgage loans are carried at amortized cost, except bonds that are defined by the NAIC as "noninvestment grade" (Class 3-6), which are carried at the lower of amortized cost or fair value. The NAIC designation for bonds, excluding nonagency residential mortgage-backed securities ("RMBS") and commercial mortgage-backed securities ("CMBS"), is provided by the NAIC. The NAIC designation for RMBS and CMBS securities are based on initial NAIC designation whereby the current book price is compared to the range of values generated by a third-party pricing vendor appointed by the NAIC's analyst and assigned to the six NAIC designations for each CUSIP to determine the security's carrying value method (amortized cost or fair value). When it is initially determined that a RMBS or CMBS is a NAIC 3-6 designation that should be held at fair value, then the process is repeated comparing the new carrying value (fair value instead of amortized cost) to the modeled value and basing the final designation on that result.
- Premium and discount on bonds are amortized using the effective interest method. The effective interest method recognizes the concept of the time value of money and calculates amortization so that period-to-period amortizations demonstrate a constant yield.
- The Company revalues asset-backed securities using the retrospective method. Changes in prepayment assumptions and the resulting cash flows are obtained from an independent pricing service and updated on at least a quarterly basis. The retrospective method changes both the yield and the asset balance so the expected future cash flows produce a return on the investment equal to the return now expected over the life of the investment as measured from the date of acquisition.

D. Going Concern

Based upon its evaluation of relevant conditions and events, management does not have substantial doubt the Company's ability to continue as a going concern.

NOTE 2 Accounting Changes and Corrections of Errors

The company identified certain adjusting entries that were recorded subsequent to the annual statements and these adjustments are included in the audited financial statements.

D. Loan-Backed Securities

(1) The Company revalues asset-backed securities using the retrospective method. Changes in prepayment assumptions and the resulting cash flows are obtained from an independent pricing service and updated on at least a quarterly basis. The retrospective method changes both the yield and the asset balance so the expected future cash flows produce a return on the investment equal to the return now expected over the life of the investment as measured from the date of acquisition.

(3) The Company has not recorded an other-than-temporary impairment for loan-backed securities during the current year.

a) The aggregate amount of unrealized losses:

1. Less than 12 Months	$ 41,016
2. 12 Months or Longer	$ -

b) The aggregate related fair value of securities with unrealized losses:

1. Less than 12 Months	$ 6,252,572
2. 12 Months or Longer	$ -

(5) SSAP No. 43R requires the Company to evaluate whether it intends to sell an impaired security or whether it has the intent and ability to retain the investment in the security for a period of time sufficient to recover the amortized cost basis. If the Company intends to sell the security or the Company does not have the intent and ability to retain the investment in the security for a period of time sufficient to recover the amortized cost basis, an other-than-temporary impairment is deemed to have occurred. The amount of the other-than-temporary impairment recognized as a realized loss shall equal the difference between the investment's amortized cost basis and the fair value of the security. If the Company does not intend to sell the security and has the intent and ability to hold the security, but the estimated present value of cash flows expected to be collected, discounted at the security's effective interest rate, is less than the amortized cost, then an other-than-temporary impairment is deemed to have occurred. Under these circumstances, the amount of the other-than-temporary impairment to be recognized as a realized loss shall equal the difference between the securities amortized cost basis and the present value of cash flows expected to be collected discounted at the security's effective interest rate (credit impairment value). For securities on which an other-than-temporary impairment has been recognized, the new amortized cost basis will be the previous amortized cost less the other-than-temporary impairment recognized as a realized loss and the Company accounts for these securities as if the security had been purchased on the measurement date of the other-than-temporary impairment. The new amortized cost basis is not adjusted for subsequent recoveries in fair value.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

(4) Description of Valuation Techniques and Inputs Used in Fair Value Measurement

The fair value of an asset is the amount at which that asset could be bought or sold in a current transaction between willing parties, that is, other than in a forced or liquidation sale. The fair value of a liability is the amount at which that liability could be incurred or settled in a current transaction between willing parties, that is, other than in a forced or liquidation sale.

The calculation of estimated fair values involves considerable judgment. Accordingly, these estimates of fair value are not necessarily indicative of the values that could be negotiated in an actual sale.

The Company's estimates of fair value for financial assets are based on the inputs used in valuation, giving the highest priority to quoted prices in active markets, and require that observable inputs be used in the valuations when available. The disclosure of fair value estimates in the fair value accounting guidance hierarchy is based on whether the significant inputs into the valuation are observable. In determining the level of the hierarchy in which the estimate is disclosed, the highest priority given to unadjusted quoted prices in active markets and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs that reflect the Company's significant market assumptions.

The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are as follows:

Level 1—Observable inputs that reflect unadjusted quoted prices for identical securities in active markets.

Level 2—Inputs include quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets, quoted prices from those willing to trade in markets that are not active, or other inputs that are observable or can be corroborated by market data for the term of the instrument. Such inputs include market interest rates and volatilities, spreads and yield curves.

Level 3—Certain inputs are unobservable (supported by little or no market activity) and significant to the fair value measurement. Unobservable inputs reflect the Corporation's best estimate of what hypothetical market participants would use to determine a transaction price for the asset or liability at the reporting date.

NOTE 33 Asbestos/Environmental Reserves

The Company has exposure to asbestos and environmental claims primarily through General Liability and Commercial Multi-Peril policies written since 1979, when it began writing business. Since 1986, an "absolute" pollution exclusion has been available.

Reported asbestos and environmental claims are handled by an experienced and dedicated claims unit that attempts to establish full case reserves for known claims.

The Company's method of estimating reserves starts with an outside consultant's estimates of ultimate losses, which are calculated at the individual policy-level and supplemented with additional bulk reserve components. The Company then reviews these estimates and consider additional information and incurred loss activity since the time of those studies to establish the current carried provision. This is believed to provide the most appropriate combination of data informing the reserve selection.

Effective January 1, 2023, results reflect the application of Reinsurance Agreement wherein Fireman's Fund Insurance Company will reinsure and be liable on all policies and contracts of insurance and assumed reinsurance of the Company. See Note 10.
